Bringing Pets into Seychelles

DISCLAIMER: The information below relating to Seychelles legal requirements is provided for general information only and may not cover issues or details specific to a particular case. Questions involving interpretations of specific provisions or application to a specific case should be addressed to Seychelles' government officials.

All cats and dogs entering Seychelles require an Import Permit issued by the Veterinary Service.

Such pets must have valid vaccination records, including proof of rabies inoculation, as well as a Veterinary Health Certificate.

Pets will be obliged to undergo a quarantine period of two weeks to six months, depending on the country of origin.

Seychelles does not accept pets for a period of less than six months. Importing bird species of any kind into Seychelles is not permitted.
